

Assembly Will Vote Today on Congo Crisis

By TOM HOGE

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — A battle over whether to set a deadline for Belgians to get out of the Congo shaped up today as the General Assembly headed for a showdown vote on the lingering African crisis.

The assembly called a special Saturday session to ballot its way through four rival resolutions and a series of conflicting amendments designed to restore order to the embattled Congo.

A 16-nation Asian-African call to reconvene the Congolese Parliament and set up a national government appeared to have the best chance of approval in the 99-nation forum.

Other proposals included a 19-nation demand that the Belgians get out of the Congo within 21 days or face Security Council action and a Soviet request that the Congolese legislature meet in three weeks under U.N. protection.

Main point of contention was the setting of a time limit for Belgian withdrawal.

U.S. Delegate Adlai E. Stevenson told the assembly Friday night Belgian departure would speed solution to the Congo crisis, but he rejected the idea of a deadline or penalties.

The call for a withdrawal time limit sparked opposition from the Congo itself.

The Congolese delegation put in an amendment which would knock out any reference to deadlines or penalties. It called for Belgian withdrawal as soon as the personnel can be replaced with the aid of the U.N.

The United States also opposed the Soviet call for a time limit on convening parliament.

UN Pushes to End Congo Debating

By TOM HOGE

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The General Assembly pushed today to wind up its Congo debate.

The 99-nation body scheduled two meetings today and was expected to hold a special Saturday session if necessary to wade through a marathon series of ballots on three rival resolutions and assorted amendments.

The resolutions range from a demand that the Belgians get out of the Congo within 21 days or face Security Council action to a mildly worded Soviet request that the Congo Parliament meet under U.N. protection.

Because the Soviet resolution did not repeat previous demands for Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld's ouster or for withdrawal of the U.N. from the Congo, it was seen as a victory for the embattled secretary-general.

The Soviets softened their tone last week after Hammarskjöld made a standing offer to resign if the assembly wanted him to.

A rival resolution sponsored by 16 Asian and African nations asks that the Congo Parliament be called to form a national government and decide the future constitution.

The third resolution, put in by 18 Asian and African nations plus Yugoslavia, seeks withdrawal of Belgian military men and political advisers from the Congo within 21 days. It calls for "necessary action" if that does not come off.

The assembly Thursday asked all nations to consider separate or collective action to compel South Africa to abandon its white supremacy policies, but it rejected an African demand for a worldwide economic and diplomatic boycott of the South African government.

No Protest to Bus Fare Hike

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—No protests have been filed against a proposed 5 per cent increase in intrastate bus fares, Commerce Commission Director W. M. Buttram said today.

The Commission will hold a hearing Monday on the request by bus companies for the fare boost.

A fare increase could take effect 10 days after commission approval. The last increase in intrastate bus fares was a 10 per cent one in August of 1958.

Woman Key to Soviet Space Plans

By EUGENE LEVIN

FLORENCE, Italy (AP) — A trim little woman who looks more like Judy Garland than a Soviet scientist is proving to be the not-so-secret Soviet weapon in the space propaganda war.

She is Alla Mashevitch, 39, mother of a 7-year-old daughter, who heads the Soviet satellite tracking program but spends considerable time outside of the Soviet Union lecturing on the conquest of space.

There is no doubt whose conquest she is talking about.

Mrs. Mashevitch has made her own conquest.

For several weeks she toured Italy lecturing. Then she came to the International Space Science Symposium in Florence.

Think of a Soviet woman scientist. A husky, buxom woman with a stony face?

Not Mrs. Mashevitch. She has the kind of pert, small, slightly roundish figure that Judy Garland had singing "Somewhere Over the Rainbow."

Mrs. Mashevitch's sandy hair is usually waved, and she even uses a touch of lipstick — a revolution of a kind for the Soviet Union.

Her dresses fit and are chic.

Thursday night Mrs. Mashevitch spoke at a public meeting sponsored by the city of Florence.

It was a simple lecture along these lines: Once man looked at the stars, then he invented a telescope, now he has made satellites and rockets to fly out there among the stars.

Again cheers.

She said a man has flown into space and "I am sure there are many in this room who envy him." More cheers.

"I envy him very much."

That comment stopped the show.

When the cheers died down she concluded: "One day a man will fly to another planet. We will have to say to the inhabitants of the other planet that we are from earth. Not from a country, but from earth! So let us settle our problems on earth peacefully."

Highway Director F. R. Oliver headed an Arkansas delegation which visited Oklahoma Wednesday and Thursday as guests of the Asphalt Institute.

"We saw their method and were not heavily impressed," Oliver said today.

"We are already building highways with a base as deep as theirs but they put more asphalt into the sub-base."

The deep strength method calls for a minimum of 18 inches of asphaltic material in the base.

Oliver said the method would cost about the same as concrete for interstate highway building purposes.

Foils Plot to Bomb U.S. Embassy

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — The Portuguese government said today it has uncovered a plot by opponents of Premier Antonio de Oliveira Salazar's regime to bomb the American and Brazilian embassies in Lisbon.

A Foreign Ministry communiqué said police last week arrested Sergio Baptista, a passenger on the Argentine liner Corrientes, after finding explosive hidden in packages made to look like candy. Baptista's nationality was not disclosed.

The communiqué said Baptista confessed he was on a sabotage mission on behalf of revolutionary organizations headed by Gen. Humberto Delgado, Henrique Galvado and other exiles. Delgado heads the opposition group, with headquarters in Brazil, which engineered the seizure by Galvao in January of the Portuguese liner Santa Maria.

Baptista was to commit terrorist acts against the embassies with a view to disturbing diplomatic relations between Portugal and these countries, the communiqué said.

Portugal was quiet as army and police forces remained in a state of alert following a shakeup of Salazar's government.

Salazar took personal control of the Defense Ministry and announced a sweeping overhaul of the armed forces and overseas ministries Thursday.

In a broadcast, he said there would be further changes in the government in order to defend the African territory of Angola.

Scores of European settlers have been killed by African terrorists since early last month. About 3,500 whites have been withdrawn from outlying districts to Luanda, the Angola capital, and heavy troop reinforcements were sent to the territory.

The newspaper said this campaign was run by "special warfare" programs set up by Walker.

Asked to comment, Walker stated: "The special warfare section of the headquarters staff of the 24th Infantry Division coordinates the pro-blue program, which is original and extensive in source material. The program is not associated or affiliated with any organization or society. It is designed to develop the understanding of American military and civil heritage, responsibility toward that heritage, and the tactics and objectives of those enemies who would destroy it."

The John Birch Society is a militantly conservative organization which has come under fire in the United States recently. Books and magazines sponsored by the society have been made available to soldiers in Walker's division and the division newspaper has reprinted material from publications of the society which is anti-Communist.

The Overseas Weekly, which has no official government or Army connection, also quoted Walker as telling an American P-TA group in Augsburg last year that political leaders such as former President Harry S. Truman, former Secretary of State Dean Acheson and Eleanor Roosevelt are "definitely pink."

He also allegedly said 80 per cent of the U.S. press, radio and television industries are Communist.

Referring to those reports, Walker said: "Statements in the Overseas Weekly of April 16, 1961, alleged to have been made by me on Jan. 2, 1960 are untrue."

When advised that this was not a denial that the general had made the statement, a division spokesman said he could not expand the general's comment.

The Overseas Weekly is published by International Media Co., Inc., a Delaware corporation. Its principal stockholder and executive editor of the paper is Marion Rospach, who was one of the original founders of the paper nearly 11 years ago.

The accident occurred just off state Highway 4 in Ouachita County.

Coroner Dr. W. H. Pruitt said Cleburne Arthur Nix died after he apparently stayed in the car with the motor running so he could run the heater.

Anti-Castro Explosions In Havana

By ROBERT BERRELLEZ

HAVANA (AP) — Three bomb explosions resounded in Havana suburbs Friday night just as a Cuban government leader was telling a rally: "If any enemy of the revolution is caught with a bomb or carrying out an act of terrorism, you capture him and we will execute him."

The official, Labor Minister Augusto Martinez, spoke at a fund-raising rally on the site of a burned-out department store.

Prime Minister Fidel Castro reportedly was "livid with rage" at the El Encanto store's destruction by insurgents.

Martinez repeated charges made in the Castro-controlled press—that the United States was responsible for this latest act of anti-Castro terrorism.

A Cubana Airlines plane leaving Mexico City International Airport had to turn back when one of its four engines caught fire, but there was no indication of sabotage. The plane made a safe landing and the 15 passengers aboard were unhurt.

In addition to the El Encanto fire and two others Thursday night three stores in Santiago were set afire and heavily damaged, flames destroyed a new cotton mill at Juguani outside Santiago, and five million pounds of sugar cane were burned on government cooperatives in Pinar del Rio Province.

Major Admits Using Birch Material

AUGSBURG, Germany (AP)—Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker denied today that his division information program is connected with the controversial John Birch Society.

He also declared statements attributed to him alleging prominent American political leaders are "pink" or Communist were untrue.

The general commander of the 24th Infantry Division here, issued his statement after a privately owned servicemen's newspaper, Overseas Weekly, claimed his division was exposed to "a propaganda barrage on the philosophy of the controversial John Birch Society."

The newspaper said this campaign was run by "special warfare" programs set up by Walker.

Asked to comment, Walker stated: "The special warfare section of the headquarters staff of the 24th Infantry Division coordinates the pro-blue program, which is original and extensive in source material. National Library Week Has More Meaning Today, Public Can't Afford Not to Read

By MARY ANITA LASETER
Star Feature Writer

All of us remember when we tagged after our parents with the plea, "Read to me." A good story was the height of childhood entertainment, and if it carried a lesson or two on behavior we accepted and absorbed it without question, much like "grown-ups" do hidden taxes.

Then, when we learned to read ourselves, what a joy it was to get on the magic carpet of books! We could go anywhere, do anything, or be anybody merely by putting ourselves in the shoes of the people in books.

When you read something amusing today, do you laugh or smile? Does something sad that you read bring a tear to your eye or a lump to your throat? Does beautiful prose or poetry inspire you? Then, you and that child just learning to read are not far different.

Reading is like looking through a window at the world around us. The more we read, the more a part of that world we become. Today, as never before, limited horizons endanger free people.

We can no longer afford indifference toward the quality and quantity of our resources for education and information. Learning has risen in the national scale of values. Reading and libraries have assumed a new importance.

National Library Week will be celebrated April 16-22, 1961. The aim is to focus attention on the vital and unique role of the printed word in our national life. Only a lifetime of continuing self-education through reading can prepare Americans to exercise responsible citizenship with understanding of themselves and today's complex world.

Good reading habits and the use and support of libraries of all kinds can result in a better-read, better-informed America. National Library Week is not an end in itself. It is a focal point of a long-range, year-round effort through continuing activities of many groups in more than 5,000 communities. Hope is one of those.

The program has the active support of Americans who are aware that the values to be found in reading are an essential part of daily life. This is the fourth year of National Library Week, and it can provide an effective instrument to create a climate for intellectual growth and personal fulfillment.

Events which celebrate National Library Week have a dual value: they cast light on the need for further cultural development and they encourage individual and group action to bring it about.

Everyone can take time to read—to discover the challenge, refreshment, the enduring values in the written word! Appropriately, the theme for National Library Week 1961 is:

"For a richer, fuller life—Read!"

Department Store Sales Decline

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis reported today that department store sales in the Big Eight Federal Reserve District the week ended April 8 declined sharply from the week of the similar week last year.

The district decline totaled 21 per cent. Biggest drops were in the St. Louis and Memphis areas, 23 per cent each. Little Rock followed with a minus 22 per cent, Louisville fell 13 per cent and sales in seven smaller district cities slumped 20 per cent.

The slump was attributed to the fact that the first post-Easter week of last year.

Sales for the four weeks ended April 8 were four per cent below those of the comparable period last year.

District sales to date were ahead of 1960 by one per cent.

Protects Culture From Brassieres

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller has signed into law a bill aimed at protecting culture from brassieres.

The bill, passed without debate by the 1961 legislature, prohibits organizations for commercial advertising purposes without permission.

Rockefeller's office was discreetly silent on the reason for the legislation.

From other sources this was learned:

Some well-known cultural organizations in New York City, such as Carnegie Hall and the Metropolitan Opera Association, have been distressed about advertising connecting the organizations with such items as brassieres.

One advertisement cited by legislators pictured an attractive young lady dreaming that she is singing in Carnegie Hall in her bina.

Teachers to Vote on SS System

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Arkansas school teachers may vote next September on whether they want to be put under Federal Social Security.

The state Teacher Retirement System board discussed a full election at a meeting Thursday, but reached no decision. The 1961 legislature provided for the referendum on Social Security.

The board also voted to invest $2 million in Federal Housing Administration mortgage bonds, the first such investment planned under new authorization from the legislature.

Hayle Pyle, director of the Retirement System, said a call for the Social Security vote may be issued in June. The call, by the governor, must be 90 days before the election. In an informal poll last year, teachers voted in favor of adding Social Security to their present retirement benefits.

The proposal sparked a heated legislative fight between Gov. Orval P. Faubus and the Arkansas Education Association over how much the state should contribute to the Retirement System. Faubus signed his bill and vetoed one backed by the AEA.

Pyle said the new mortgage investment, authorized by the 1961 legislature, would yield 5 per cent or higher interest.

The Retirement System has $42 million in reserve, of which more than $20 million is invested in bonds bearing about 3.5 per cent interest.

Two Connected With Robberies

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Two Saline County men have been charged in connection with four recent armed robberies in the Little Rock area.

The men, Eugene Greer, 27, of Bauxite, and Marion Barry, 27, of Vinny Ridge, were arrested early Wednesday near Rison, about four hours after a Little Rock area produce market had been held up. Both were armed.

Prosecutor John T. Jernigan Thursday charged them with the produce market holdup, a service station robbery earlier Wednesday and robberies at two liquor stores, one on April 6, the other last Monday. Jernigan said they also would be questioned in two other holdups, one in Hot Springs and one in Benton, on April 6.

Red Reported Calm Before Space Flight

By PRESTON GROVER

MOSCOW (AP)—Yuri Gagarin went to bed early last Tuesday night with the leisurely trip of a man "going on a fishing trip" at dawn.

The next morning he was blasted off in man's pioneer flight into space.

The official Soviet news agency Tass gave the first details of the scene at the secret launching site just before the young air force major took off to become the world's first astronaut.

Gagarin was ordered to sleep 10 hours.

"Everybody was surprised how quickly he fell asleep—as if in the morning he was to go, not into space, but on a fishing trip or to a basketball match with his comrades," the news agency related.

"When they woke him he was fresh and cheerful. Sprinkling out of bed, the cosmonaut did the usual morning setting-up exercises."

People came to his room to help him into his spacesuit. The garment was designed to keep the Soviet pilot "warm and comfortable and to shield his body reliably from all harmful factors of outer space."

Tass went on to point the setting last Wednesday morning as the spaceship stood on its launchers at the launching pad.

"Engineers, scientists and workers have already gathered at the foot of the giant spaceship. This is not the first time that this team has sent giant ships into space from this pad. But this is a special day. For the first time man will go into space," Tass said.

"Everything is ready for the take-off. Yuri Gagarin steps into the lift which will whisk him to the top of the giant rocket where the cosmonaut's cabin is located."

"In this lift Yuri Gagarin rides high above the earth, and the eyes of all those who stand around the magnificent ship are on him. The lift has stopped and Yuri Gagarin lingers for a moment to wave to his friends and comrades far below."

"Raising his hands, Yuri Gagarin sends greetings to those who created this mighty vehicle," Tass continued. "The last seconds of the count-down and the giant spaceship, out of a cloud of fire, soars to the stars."

This same man was the greatest hero of the Communist world as he looked out at the multitudes in Red Square Friday—27 years old, just over five feet tall, square and trim in his uniform, closely cropped brown hair topped by light blue eyes and trim features.

He had the same poised, confident, easy manner and unusual calm that he displayed before his history making flight.

Asks Probe of Space Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Victor Anfuso, D-N.Y., a member of the House Space Committee, today called for a congressional investigation of the nation's man-in-space program.

"I want to see this country mobilized to a wartime basis because we are at war," he said. "I want to see schedules cut in half. I want to see what NASA says it's going to do in 10 years done in five. I want to see some first coming out of NASA such as a landing on the moon which I know can be done if we go immediately into development of a solid fuel booster."

Anfuso's statement was issued as the House Space Committee discussed the Soviet feat of sending a man around the world in 89 minutes as reported by Tass, the Soviet news agency.

The committee shifted its hearing to the largest meeting room in the House Office Building, and it was well attended with James Webb, director of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, and Deputy Director Dr. Hugh L. Dryden on hand for questioning.

Webb told the committee the U.S. space program is designed to meet the "sound, scientific objectives of this country, not to match what the Russians may do."

Webb agreed with Rep. James G. Fulton, R-Pa., that the United States "is not behind the Russians in over-all space achievements," although the Soviets have shown a sense of urgency and pulled off "spectaculars" that the United States has not matched.

Dryden disputed a statement by Fulton that American intelligence knew ahead of time precisely when the Soviets would attempt their first manned orbital flight.

But Dryden recalled he had said earlier this year that the Soviets had the ability to loft a man into orbit at anytime, and could be expected to do it in the early part of this year.

Greeks First Imagined Man in Space

NEW YORK (AP)—The ancient Greeks wrote the first imaginary account of interplanetary travel by man.

Lucian, a Greek satirist and wit, wrote the first accounts of voyages through space in the second century after Christ, thus establishing a literary convention now classified as science fiction.

Lucian describes a ship that is swept up into a whirlwind and carried for seven days and nights to "a great country in the air, like a shining island."

During the 19th and 20th centuries, accounts of space travel culminated in the works of Jules Verne and H. G. Wells and became more like the ones familiar to today's science fiction fan.

Immediately after the civil war, according to a prophetic account written in 1865 by Verne, an artificial satellite was fired from Florida into an orbit around the moon. It carried three men and two dogs.

Ironically, the feat was the work of American inventive genius heavily subsidized by Moscow.

The book appeared in two volumes entitled "From the Earth to the Moon" and "Round the Moon."

Verne, a Frenchman with a great admiration for American inventiveness, wrote that the proposal to fire a projectile to the moon was backed by the United States with contributions totaling $4 million, but additional funds had to be raised abroad. He continued:

"Russia paid as her contingent the enormous sum of 368,733 rubles. This was not remarkable considering the scientific taste of the Russians and the impetus which they have given to astronomical studies—thanks to their numerous observations."

"Tampa Town" was chosen by Verne as the launching site because southern Florida "reckons for the handicapped. He said about $100 million a year is being spent now.

Hunt told the opening session of a regional meeting of the Vocational Rehabilitation Association and President's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped that rehabilitation programs now reach about 90,000 of the estimated 200,000 physically handicapped persons.

By 1970, he said, the number of handicapped persons needing help will have risen to 325,000.

He said more doctors, counselors, therapists and social workers will be needed for the expanded program. More facilities also will be required, he said.

About 400 persons from Arkansas, Louisiana, Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico are attending the conference.

Gov. Orval E. Faubus and Sen. John McClellan, D-Ark., are scheduled to speak to the delegates Friday. Today's program was devoted mostly to workshops.

Charming furniture in early American theme is versatile. Tall Boston book stack, in background, is shallow enough for a foyer, narrow enough to fit between windows. Antiqued serving cart doubles as table for two, console table or buffet. Hutch bookcase could go into child's room later.

Young Wife Finds It Hard to Love Child

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: I am 18 and my husband is 31. I have a four-month-old baby girl and a 10-year-old stepdaughter. (My husband was married before.) He thinks I should love my stepdaughter as much as I do my own child. I will probably love him unless I can achieve the impossible. I like my stepdaughter but just can't love her the way I do our baby. What should I do?

—D. J. J.

Dear D. J. J.: Love isn't love unless it springs spontaneously from the heart. To love your little stepdaughter you must first understand her. Begin by putting yourself in her place. Try to see life through her eyes.

Her father's concern for her is justifiable. She must miss her mother. I'm sure she feels lonely and fearful and, unless you show her love, unwanted. Put your arms around her, give of yourself, take her into your life, and before you know it you'll find yourself loving the child. This is an opportunity, not a duty. Make the most of it.

Dear Helen: I am old enough to see what is happening to the person who means the most to me — my mother. I sometimes think she is losing her mind. His idea of the cause. His idea of having a home and family is giving Mom $10 or $15 a week and eating out on his nights off. He spends all his other time sleeping or at taverns.

Mom is the weak, clinging type who can't strike back. She wants to leave my father and go live with her brother. After I finish school I wanted to go to business college here. I have a steady boy friend. He's the main reason I hate to leave. Should I go with my Mom or stay here, get my schooling, a good job and send her money? If I didn't go, she would still have my younger sister, so wouldn't be alone. —Troubled

Dear Troubled: Would your mother feel you sided with your father, if you remained with him? Who would pay for your schooling, he or your mother? Is it the desire to go to business college, or to be with your boy friend which motivates you? Ask yourself these questions then make your decision.

Dear Helen: I am a 20-year-old deserted wife with a child. I loved my husband and still do but he's the type that wants women, not a woman. He also drinks.

I went to look for a job one day. When I came back he had packed up and left. Our divorce will be final in eight months. A few weeks ago he wrote that he still loved me and wanted to come back. I told him okay, if he would settle down. We met once. I fell into his arms and, before we knew it, had done wrong.

Now I'm going to have his second child. I can't tell my parents. It's all they can do to support me and my one child. We live with them now. What can I do? Should I find my husband and tell him the situation? —M.

Dear M.: Either get a job (it won't be the first time a pregnant woman has worked) or go back to your husband. It's unfair to look to your parents for support. In marrying you and your husband assumed certain responsibilities. It's your duty and his to take over. If you don't, neither of you will ever amount to anything. Show some character, if only for your children's sake.

Says Reds to Stay Ahead for Awhile

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy says the Soviet Union will remain ahead of the United States for some time in the space race — that "the news will be worse before it is better."

But he said he is hopeful that the United States will be first in other scientific achievements of much greater benefit to mankind than the spectacular Soviet feat of firing a man around the globe and bringing him safely back to earth.

And while Kennedy credits the Soviets with "a most impressive scientific accomplishment," he does not regard it as any sign of "weakening of the Free World."

forms and explained the advantages of purchasing each style. Band students Donald Ray Stigner and Dennie White modeled several of the uniforms and hats with various plumes.

There will be a special meeting of the club on Monday night, April 17 at the band building at which time uniforms will be displayed by another company.

Mrs. McKenzie Installed WSCS President

The regular monthly business meeting of the WSCS of First Methodist Church was held Monday afternoon at the church. Mrs. P. A. Escarce, president, opened the meeting by reading the 164th Psalm, following with prayer. After the secretary and treasurer's reports, Miss Carol Scott made a motion, which was accepted that all officers meet in a group Monday, April 11 at 2:30 to fill out their last reports of the year.

Mrs. Wayne Eley, secretary of Youth Work, announced that 24 youth attended the youth meeting recently held in Emmet.

Mrs. L. C. Gatlin, secretary of Spiritual Life, announced that the next Spiritual Life meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Allen Gee, with Mrs. Eley as leader. She gave a short prayer for people overseas.

Mrs. Lloyd Haynie announced that Betty Crocker coupons are being brought in to get spoons for the church.

Mrs. Everett Ward presented a panel discussion on "Woman's Changing Roles." Those taking part on the panel were Mrs. Gatlin, Mrs. Dick Stewart, Mrs. Frank Gilbert, and Mrs. Adam Guthrie, Jr.

Mrs. J. W. Teeter installed the new slate of officers for 1961-62.

Mrs. Carl Dalrymple and Mrs. J. H. Robertson attended a meeting on Church Extension and Evangelism in Camden on Monday.

Mrs. R. P. Hamby attended funeral services for Miss Bessie Trimble in Washington on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Coy Dewoody spent Tuesday in Texarkana.

Mrs. S. B. Scott and Mrs. Mark Justiss motored to Texarkana for the day.

Dr. Glenn Hairston attended a series of medical lectures in Texarkana on Sunday.

The destruction cyclone near Blevins, Ark., was on April 15, 1921, forty years ago today. The waste in its path can be remembered by many.

in the struggle against communism. But in setting forth these views at a news conference Wednesday, the President did sound a note of warning.

He said: "I do regard the total mobilization of men and things for the service of the Communist bloc over the last years as a source of great danger to us. And I would say we are going to have to live with that danger through most of the rest of this century."

This ninth Kennedy news conference as President drew 426 newsmen — eight more than the previous record set at his first on Jan. 25. His face was a study in solemn seriousness as he dealt at length with the space situation, saying "we are behind," as he pledged that under no circumstances will U.S. armed forces be engaged in any move to overthrow Cuba's Fidel Castro regime; as he stopped just short of calling Castro a Communist; as he said that under present circumstances the United States continues to oppose admittance of Red China to the United Nations. He also said he is hopeful that the Soviet Union will reply this week to the British proposal backed by the United States—for a quick cease-fire in Communist-menaced Laos.

And he voiced hope, too, that an upturn in the national economy will provide new jobs for several thousand civilians employed at about 50 military installations to be shut down.

Just before his news conference Kennedy sent Soviet Premier Khrushchev a congratulatory cable on the man-in-space victory.

The news conference questions and answers ranged over these other matters:

Cuba — In ruling out intervention in Cuba by U.S. armed forces Kennedy said, "This government will do everything it possibly can, and I think it can meet its responsibilities, to make sure that there are no Americans involved in any actions inside Cuba."

Asked whether he regards Castro as a Communist, the President replied he did not want to characterize the Cuban leader, but "he has associated himself most intimately with the Sino-Soviet bloc and has indicated his desire to spread the influence of that bloc throughout this hemisphere."

Powers — The government has no information on whether the Soviet Union may be planning to release Francis Gary Powers, the American pilot jailed in the Soviet Union after his U2 spy plane was downed by the Soviets last May 1.

Laos — Kennedy discounted reports that there recently has been a sharp step-up in Soviet airlift delivery of supplies to Communist-led forces in Laos. He added that the United States is continuing to help supply the royalist forces, but is hopeful the Soviet Union will reply this week to cease-fire proposals.

Border — The President said anew that the question of the German-Polish frontier can be settled only in a peace treaty between Germany and the allied powers of World War II.

United Nations — Kennedy voiced opposition to Soviet demands for a reorganization of the United Nations, but made no direct reply to a question whether he will resist with equal vigor, as a newsmen put it, French President Charles de Gaulle's call for changes in the U.N. structure. Kennedy did say he hopes the new member nations can be given a greater voice in the Security Council.

Red China — Kennedy termed "not accurate" a London report saying his administration had decided not to oppose U.N. debate next fall on Communist China's bid for a seat in the United Nations. The President said he had made it very clear, in talks last week with Britain's Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, that the United States intends to honor its commitments on recognition and defense of Chinese Nationalist Formosa.

Military Installations — A newsmen asked Kennedy how he reconciled concern about unemployment.

ment with government plans to close down about 50 military installations which no longer contribute to the general defensive strength of the country.

"I am hopeful," he said, "that the country's economy generally will be strong enough to absorb those who may be thrown out of work because of structural changes in our defense system."

Medicine — Kennedy said he hopes it may be possible to "take some action executive" to reduce the cost of medicines. Apart from possible presidential action, he added, "the Federal Trade Commission also, I am sure, will concern itself with this problem."

The President also put in another plug for congressional approval of his program to provide health insurance — financed through the Social Security system — for the aged. He called the program another facet of the problem of helping our people afford good health.

CHAPTER XXXVI
The afternoon was well along. Blue and lavender haze leaked off the higher ridges and flowed down in long ripples of shadow, slowly chasing sunlight from the town. In the office, Chris Waddell sat alone, awaiting the slow emergence of renewed spirit. A great weariness held him and all the processes of his mind seemed warped and shriveled. He hardly stirred when Frank Scobie came in. "It's happened before—it will happen again." Waddell spoke slowly. "Yes, I want no more of such. I'm taking off the badge, Frank—for good." "I can understand why you feel that way just now," Scobie said carefully. "But in a week or two—?" Waddell shook his head. "Not in a year or two. Not ever." He unpinned the badge from his shirt, laid it on the desk. "That's it. Today is my day to call it quits. I've walked down my last Ute Street. I want no more of them." He took a short turn up and down the office. "I'm at a spot in the trail where I'll never be again. I make the break now, or never. And it is now." He paused by Scobie and dropped a hand on his shoulder. "You saved my life back there, Frank. Elvie Spooner had me dead to rights. It will be a good thought to carry with me—and the knowledge that you and I, we made one final walk down a tough street—together. Yes, that is good to know that while I lost one good friend last night in Ace MacSwain, I regained an old one today when I needed him most. Now is the time to step out."

In the purple twilight Waddell waited by the door of Jack Millerson's store, and when she came out, he took her arm. "I would walk you home, Norma." She shivered and pressed closer to him. "It—it must have been terrible—in the Belle Union." "Yes," he agreed, "it was. But I've taken off the badge, for good." They turned into the Hill House alley and went along it. In the clearing beyond, Norma slowed. "What will you do, Chris?" "Cattle. The old call is back again. But first I'd like to ride the hills with you." In the dusk her eyes took on a soft shining. "There are a lot of trails. And I know them all."

Sir Winston Bids Goodbye to Americans
NEW YORK (AP) — A tottery but smiling Sir Winston Churchill bade cheering Americans goodbye today—perhaps for the last time. A crowd of about 300 persons at Idlewild Airport clapped and shouted as the 86-year-old former British prime minister boarded a plane for home. With friends assisting at each arm, and using his familiar cane, Sir Winston proceeded slowly on a 200-foot walk from a terminal building to a jet airliner. The crowd burst into cheers and surged against iron barriers, which had been specially set up on each side of his path. Sir Winston broke into a giant version of his famed cherubic grin, took off his hat, held it aloft and eyed the well-wishers with obvious appreciation. A microphone had been set up, apparently in hopes the famed World War II statesman would say a few words. Then with a final glance at the cheering crowd, Churchill gave one more expression of farewell and entered the aircraft. He was assisted by two old friends, American financier Bernard Baruch and Greek shipping magnate Aristotle Onassis, and was attended by his personal physician and two nurses. Churchill arrived Wednesday after a Caribbean cruise on Onassis' luxurious yacht. As he moved toward his plane, among those in the crowd striving to catch a glimpse was a mother and her 6-year-old son. The mother turned to the boy and said: "There is one of the greatest men that ever lived."

Crew Rescued From Broken Motor Ship
BOSTON (AP) — The captain and 3-man crew of the Liberty ship Marine Merchant were rescued early today after the ship-laden, 8,294-ton vessel was battered and broken by rough seas 40 miles southeast of the Portland, Maine, lights. The Portland-bound craft was caught in a freakish April storm that swept out to sea Thursday night after dumping six or more inches of snow on much of New England. The first SOS from the stricken vessel came shortly before midnight and triggered a rescue operation. Merchant ships and Coast Guard boats converged on the scene. The Marine Merchant, built in 1944, hove to in a gale after hours. The Esso Raleigh, which was bound for Boston, picked up the captain and 25 crewmen from one lifeboat. The British motor vessel Daru picked up nine men from another lifeboat. The Marine Merchant is owned by the Marine Navigation Co. Her home port is Wilmington, Del. The Coast Guard reported the freighter sank at 9:10 a.m. in 100 feet of water.

REGULAR CHURCH

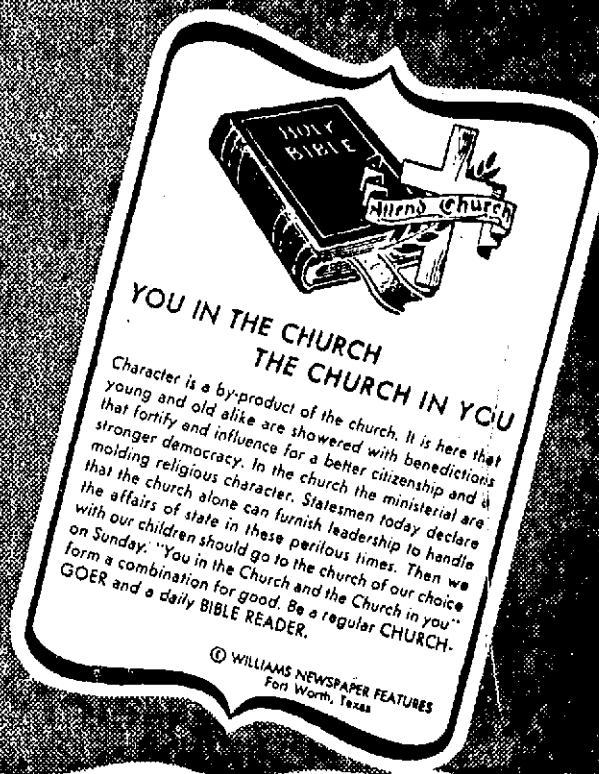

*it takes so little

WRONG?

IF you had faith as a grain of mustard seed..." That's not much faith. But just look what God said you could do with so little. The mustard seed is the tiniest of seeds. Here the huge microscope enlarges it many times... yet, one can scarcely see it. The Lord said, If you have that much faith you can do anything! You can say to a mountain, "move over" and it will be done. You can endure anything... you can become anything — IF, you have a wee bit of faith. Faith is the root of all blessing. The man who is without it is dead as a cinder. The Pilgrims had faith. Martin Luther and John Wesley had faith. Jesus was supremely a man of faith and waits to share his blessings on men who can be trusted... men of faith. How much faith do you have?

Is your faith as big as the mustard seed?
